

A Memorandum to Institutional Investors warning of a devastating stock market and economic crash to occur between June and September of 2025

This writing is a warning about the economic collapse that will occur between June and September of 2025. The ramifications of inflationary monetary policies conducted over the last two decades are now set to manifest in real time. This upcoming crash will comprise of more than just the market economy. The incubation period defined by the application of hazardous monetary policies, i.e raising the debt ceiling, incurring more debt, mismanaging inflation, the rising deficit, etc. has come to an end, and the first major symptoms of these measures will reveal itself in more than just a market crash. This time, the crash will involve the market economy and the real economy, in that a market crash will coincide with massive unemployment, social unrest, ethnic conflict, bank runs, geopolitical instability, national security vulnerability, and currency collapse. Since the US is no longer under the petrodollar paradigm, it is justified to anticipate that continuing with the same reckless monetary approach post-petrodollar will have dire consequences if something new isn't applied as a safeguard measure against the grim outcome that awaits the country.

Whereas under the petrodollar agreement when the Federal Reserve had the clout to increase the money supply since there was a global demand for the US dollars, the new circumstance of which the petrodollar is no longer—as many countries have ditched the dollar for use in trade, has made it so where the Federal Reserve can no longer recklessly increase the money supply without eventual systemic risk for the US economy and its financial standing. This letter is warning that if drastic austerity (higher interest rates, increased taxes and less spending) isn't applied before June 2025, then expect a unprecedented sell-off in the stock market between June 5th 2025 and September 4th 2025, even extending beyond this timeframe. It is advisable to have all cash withdrawn from brokerage and bank accounts before June 5th 2025, since this crash will spare neither from collapse. And there will be no bailout since it is now untenable without the petrodollar agreement in place, and so thus the crash will proliferate and be felt beyond the borders of the United States, with severe geopolitical ramifications for all of her allies.

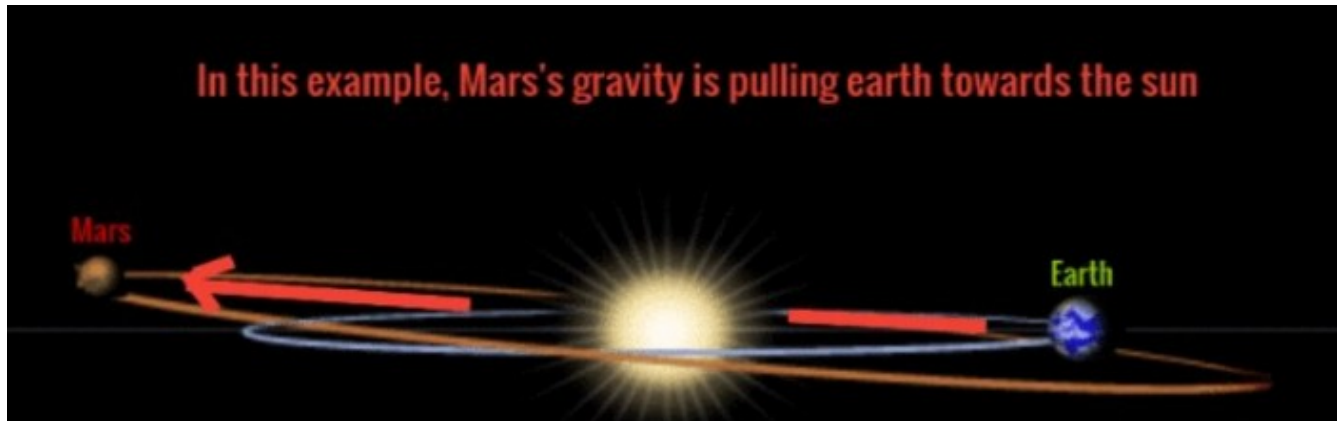

This crash is slated to happen when the planet Mars is both within 30 degrees of the lunar node and behind the sun, a most dire omen for all of humanity. This was the configuration in the heavens during the stock market crash of 1929, the crash of 1987, the 9/11 terror attacks, the low of the crash of 2008, the 2005 London bombings, the 2015 Paris terror attacks, the COVID crash of 2020, October 7th and now the summer devastation of 2025.

Here is what is happening in the heavens and the scientific explanation for it. Science has revealed that the planet Mars is exerting a gravitational pull upon Earth's axial tilt as it revolves around the sun. I have surmised that during the times that Mars is traveling in front of the sun, its gravitational effect pulls earth's axial tilt away from the sun which creates the conditions for cooler than average temperatures relative to the season. This is the case at the time of this writing on January 21, 2025.

Mars is in front of the sun, behind the earth tugging its axial tilt away from it. Hence why there has never been a major stock market crash during this configuration as shown in the graphic.

Below is the configuration when things get out of hand and stock market crashes happen. When Mars goes behind the sun, it's gravitational effect pulls earth's axial tilt towards the sun and creates the conditions for warmer than average temperatures relative to the season. Warmer temperatures have been scientifically linked to cognitive decline, aggressive behavior, and negative mood states. Here is what the configuration will be this summer when Mars is behind the sun and within 30 degrees of the lunar node. Everyone will be affected.

It is easy to surmise the terrestrial effects of Mars going behind or in front of the sun, as I have elucidated.

But what is happening when Mars is within 30 degrees of the lunar node? There is a gravitational force of attraction between all objects in the universe, as understood by modern science under Newtonian law of gravitation. This gravitational effect can alter the orientation of other objects and also their orbital plane. If Mars is exerting a pull on earth's axial tilt, then it is also exerting a gravitational pull upon the moon and its orbital plane. I posit that Mars exerts this effect most strongly when Mars is within 30 degrees of the lunar node.

The lunar node is simply the point when the moon's orbital plane around the earth intersects the earth's orbital plane around the sun. That intersection point, I hypothesize, exposes the moon's orbital plane to Mars's gravitational pull when Mars is within 30 degrees of the lunar node, which in effect would explain why the moon's orbital plane is getting closer to the sun at a distance of 3 cm each year—Mars is the culprit. Mars is basically stretching the orbital path of the moon, and bringing the moon further away from earth, which is creating a destabilizing effect on earth's wobble, leading to wilder climate fluctuations. If we factor Mars's position behind the sun along with it being within 30 degrees of the lunar node, we can now anticipate an even greater increase in temperatures, which would exacerbate the effects of warmer than average temperatures on cognitive health. Hence, why major catastrophic events have occurred when both of these Mars factors were present.

This in light of all of this information, one can gather that the summer of 2025, because of Mars being behind the sun and also within 30 degrees of the lunar node, will be hotter and more violent than usual bringing about a level of pessimism and angst that will permeate throughout the country, affecting all institutions and activities. Hence it is advised for institutional investors to anticipate the worst when Mars is within 30 degrees of the lunar node between June 5th 2025 and September 4th 2025 and make plans to vacate the stock market before June 5th.
